Brand Equity Platform

$500K Pre-Seed

The Problem

A $250B Market Defined by Misaligned Incentives

Creators don't build wealth. Brands get unauthentic promotion.

The Creator's Problem

- A creator who takes a brand from launch to a $50M valuation earns $5K–$20K. An early employee with equity earns $500K+ for the same outcome.
- Over 95% of deals are flat-fee and transactional; creators drive the growth engine but are systematically cut out of the upside.

The Brand's Problem

- Brands pay premium prices for promotions but the moment the check clears, the creator's attention moves on.
- The result is high CAC, low ROI, and zero long-term advocacy, because promoters with no stake have no reason to care.

The creator economy market reached $250 billion in 2025 and is forecasted to hit $1.3 trillion by 2032 (Grand View Research), yet it runs on a compensation model designed for a much smaller, much simpler era.

The Solution

Shadow Cap Table

The Insight

Equity Alignment Is the Missing Layer of the Creator Economy

What stock options did for employees, creator equity will do for creators

Why Now

1

Critical Mass Reached

The creator economy has hit $250B+ with 50M+ creators, large enough to support a dedicated equity infrastructure layer.

2

AI Minimizes Complexity

What once required investment bankers and lawyers can now be automated in real time at a fraction of the cost.

3

Demand Signal Is Clear

Creators want ownership. Brands want authentic, long-term advocates. Both sides are frustrated with the status quo.

Business Model

Multiple Revenue Streams, Aligned Incentives

SaaS Subscriptions

Tiered plans for both creators and brands, delivering predictable, recurring MRR/ARR.

Transaction Fees

Commission on equity and revenue share deals brokered through the platform, directly aligning HypeStake's incentives with successful deal closures. Scales with platform volume.

Premium Add-Ons

Compliance modules, advanced analytics, early liquidity options, exit simulator, and dedicated support for power users and enterprise clients.

Freemium Entry

Free basic tier drives viral adoption and builds the upsell pipeline, accelerating network effects across both sides of the marketplace.

Target Customers

Four Segments, One Platform

Each segment has a distinct pain point and high motivation to adopt

Professional Creators (Mid-Tier & Up)

Earning $50K+/year with established brand relationships but locked into flat fee deals with zero long-term wealth upside. This is the highest-value cohort; they have the leverage and sophistication to negotiate equity.

Emerging Creators (10K–100K followers)

Actively seeking monetization beyond ad revenue and one-off sponsorships. Growth-focused and motivated by portfolio-building potential. They represent the volume engine.

DTC Brands & Venture-Backed Startups

Frustrated by influencer marketing ROI and short-term campaigns. They want authentic, long-term advocates with aligned incentives, and they have equity to offer.

Creator Agencies & Talent Networks

Managing rosters of 10+ creators, these agencies need scalable infrastructure for complex equity and hybrid deal structuring. They become distribution partners.

❏ Secondary audiences include marketing leaders at mid-market/enterprise brands (VPs allocating 10–15% of budgets to influencer marketing) and creator economy investors and thought leaders, who serve as awareness and credibility amplifiers.

Competitive Landscape

No Direct Competitor in Creator Equity

HypeStake is the only AI powered platform combining equity/hybrid deals, AI matching, performance vesting, and creator-friendly portfolio tools in one seamless SaaS experience. Incumbents lack the equity layer and creator-centric design.

Go-to-Market

Creator-Led, Network-Effect Driven

Amplify

Successful equity deals become public proof points; creator evangelists with equity stakes have a financial incentive to refer both other creators. The amplification flywheel is self-reinforcing: every successful deal generates social proof, which attracts more creators, which makes the marketplace more valuable to brands, which drives more deals.

Retain

HypeStake's retention moat is structural, not behavioral. Unlike a SaaS tool that users can swap out, the Shadow Cap Table creates a creator's financial identity on the platform.

Activate

Creator and brand onboarding using AI powered tools such as Creator Genome profile, shadow cap table, and a Dynamic Deal Architect.

Acquire

Founder-led outreach via social media targeting creators, using freemium entry to remove friction. Direct outreach to startup founders and marketing heads via LinkedIn, founder Slack communities, and VC/accelerator ecosystem partnerships.
